

	 Three overlapping diamonds (rhombuses) are arranged in a triangular pattern. One diamond is at the top left, one is at the top right, and one is centered below them. The diamonds overlap in the center.
--	-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	--